individual club or its individual members. Consequently, no part of the net earnings of funds raised from the public shall benefit any individual Lions member, or other private individual or entity. These policies are intended to provide guidance for clubs to meet the purposes of the International Association of Lions Clubs. Key in determining the proper use of funds is considering transparency to the public and developing trust from the community in which the Lions operate. How Lions use funds must meet the legal and tax requirements for the local jurisdiction in which they operate.

    - c. Mixed Use of Property. When Lions property is used for both public and administrative purposes, then a pro-rata percentage of the expenses may be paid from public funds related to the percentage of use of the property by the public. For example, a Lions Club House that is used 20% of the time for the public may use public funds to offset 20% of the expenses of maintaining and operating the property.
  4. Political Activity. As a non-partisan charitable organization, Lions Clubs and Districts (single, sub- or multiple) cannot contribute public or administrative funds to support or endorse an elected official or candidate for local, state, federal or foreign office.

In the event a candidate is not eligible to be elected at a particular international convention, then that particular convention is not counted as one (1) of the three (3) succeeding international conventions under the term of validity. For example, specific circumstances under which endorsed candidates are not eligible to be elected include, but are not limited to, the following:
  - (1) If a third vice president or international director candidate's district (single, sub- or multiple) endorsement is issued less than the required number of days before the convening date of a particular international convention, then the candidate is not eligible to be elected at that particular international convention.

LEGAL RESPONSIBILITIES OF MEMBERS OF THE INTERNATIONAL BOARD OF DIRECTORS AND EXECUTIVE OFFICERS

MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

ILLINOIS STATUTORY RESPONSIBILITIES

The General Not-For-Profit Corporation Act of Illinois states in Chapter 32, Section 108.05 that, "The affairs of a corporation shall be managed by or under the direction of a Board of Directors." The purpose of this brochure is to more specifically define this broad authorization of power that has been assigned to the International Board.

THE DIRECTORS' BASIC DUTIES

The Directors have general responsibility for the management of the business and affairs of the corporation. They have the legal duty to use reasonable care and diligence and must act within the scope of authority conferred upon them. Directors owe three basic duties to the corporations they serve: obedience, diligence and loyalty.

The duty of obedience requires the Directors to contain their activities within the authority conferred upon them by the Association's Articles of Incorporation and the Constitution and By-Laws. For a willful violation of this rule and usually for their negligent disobedience of it, the Directors will be held liable to the corporation.

The second duty, diligence, requires the Directors to exercise "reasonable care and prudence" when acting on behalf of the corporation they represent. The courts have traditionally interpreted the general standard to mean that a Director must exercise the degree of care and prudence that people prompted by self-interest exercise in their own affairs. Directors must take an interest in the business affairs of the corporation, including keeping themselves informed of the corporation's activities. It is not a defense to the Directors that they are ignorant or inexperienced in the corporation's activities or that their own intentions are honest.

The third duty is that of loyalty. It contemplates that a Director must refrain from engaging in his/her own personal activities in such a manner as to injure or take advantage of his/her corporation. Loyalty also includes the requirement that a Director act fairly with respect to transactions involving the corporation. Among the factors considered in determining fairness are the adequacy of consideration, corporate need to enter into the transaction, financial position of the corporation, alternatives available and full disclosure.

In accordance with this Common Law Duty of Loyalty Illinois has, by statutory provision, expressly prohibited the making of loans by the corporation to its Directors and Officers. Should such a loan be approved by the Board, each Director of the corporation who votes for or assents to the making of the same shall be jointly and severally liable to the corporation for the amount of such loan until the repayment thereof.

Illinois Case Law has adopted the Corporate Opportunity Doctrine. This principle states that a Director or Officer of the corporation may not divert a business opportunity in which his/her corporation may reasonably be interested without first giving the corporation an opportunity to act. In determining whether a corporate opportunity has been diverted, Directors are held to a standard of "good faith" measured by general business ethics.

The Corporate Opportunity Doctrine can extend to the purchase of land, business assets or anything else that the Director has reason to know the corporation would be interested in. A Director who fails to give the corporation a chance to act will be liable to the corporation for any profits made.

DIRECTORS AS FIDUCIARIES

It is generally accepted that the Directors and Officers of a corporation occupy a fiduciary relationship to the corporation. The Illinois courts have declared that "A fiduciary relationship automatically exists between a corporation and its Directors and Officers."

The fiduciary relationship requires that Directors act in good faith on all occasions and give their conscientious care and best judgment to their tasks.

A Director usually meets his/her duties to the corporation when he/she performs his/her duties in good faith and in a manner he/she reasonably believes to be in the best interest of the corporation. Illinois courts will not usually interfere with the Directors' management of the corporation in the absence of fraud and illegal conduct or impose liability on him/her because of erroneous judgment when the same is exercised in good faith.

ASSENT OF DIRECTOR IMPLIED BY MERE ATTENDANCE AT A BOARD MEETING

A Director who is present at a meeting of the Board of Directors at which action on any corporate matter is taken is conclusively presumed to have assented to the action unless his/her dissent is entered into the minutes of the meeting; or he/she files a written dissent with the person acting as secretary of the meeting before its adjournment; or he/she notified the secretary of the corporation by registered mail immediately after adjournment of the meeting. However, a Director who votes in favor of a proposition does not have the right to dissent by registered mail.

In summary, should a Director disagree with action taken at a Board Meeting he/she must voice his/her dissent by complying with the above-stated procedure or his/her assent will be conclusively inferred by his/her attendance.

CORPORATE OFFICERS

STATUTORY RESPONSIBILITIES

The statutory duties and authority of the corporate officers are rather broad and not specifically defined in the Illinois General Not-For-Profit Corporation Act. Generally, the officers have such authority and duties as are provided in the By-Laws or determined by the Board as long as they are not inconsistent with the By-Laws.

GENERAL AUTHORITY OF OFFICERS

The scope of authority of corporation's officers is not easily defined. The question of actual authority of an officer and his/her apparent authority may become of major importance when the reliance of an outsider on the officer's authority is involved.

Each officer is expected to stay within the limits of his/her authority and may be held liable to his/her corporation if he/she exceeds those limits. An officer may also be held liable to an injured outsider, where the officer has exceeded his/her power and authority, unless the corporation ratifies his/her unauthorized actions and thus assumes corporate liability for them.

LEGAL AUTHORITY OF OFFICERS—ACTUAL, APPARENT OR THROUGH RATIFICATION OF ACTIONS

The authority of corporate officers may be actual (express or implied), apparent or derived from ratification of an act beyond the officer's power.

ACTUAL AUTHORITY

An officer derives his/her express authority from statutes, the Articles of Incorporation, or the corporation's Constitution and By-Laws or Resolutions of the Board of Directors. For example, the By-Laws might enumerate the various officers and define their respective authority.

Actual Authority other than express authority is usually referred to as "implied" or "inherent" authority. An officer may derive implied authority based on the inherent powers of his/her office.

Modern Illinois Case Law tends to establish a rebuttable presumption that the President has authority to act on behalf of the corporation in the ordinary course of corporate affairs (day-to-day business). Where the President is in fact General Manager, he/she has the implied authority inherent to the office of the General Manager. The General Manager has implied authority to make any contract or to do any other act appropriate in the ordinary business of the corporation. The fact that a person is permitted to act as General Manager is sufficient to clothe him/her with such implied authority. The International President, therefore, must always be cognizant of the fact that there is a legal presumption that he/she possesses such implied authority and must conduct his/her actions with the idea that the same may be binding upon the Association.

The Vice-Presidents, unlike the President, have no inherent powers other than to act when the President is unavailable because of death, illness or other incapacity.

APPARENT AUTHORITY

Apparent Authority, sometimes referred to as Ostensible Authority, exists when the corporation holds out that an officer or agent possesses certain authority and a third person in good faith believes that such authority exists. In such a case, the corporation and possibly such third person are estopped from denying such authority. In summary, where there is Apparent Authority the absence of Actual Authority, express or implied, is immaterial. The relationship stressed is that between the corporation and the person transacting business with its purported agent.

AUTHORITY THROUGH RATIFICATION OF ACTIONS

Should an officer act beyond the scope of his/her authority, such action may be ratified by the Board of Directors. Ratification may be expressed, such as by Resolution of the Board of Directors, or implied; for example, by acceptance of benefits of the unauthorized act with knowledge of the facts.

Where an officer purports to contract on behalf of a corporation without authority such officer may be personally liable to the third person on the contract. The rationale of this ruling is that one who purports to contract on behalf of a principal is liable if the principal is not, or for breach of implied warranty of authority. Authorized officers may become liable for the contract if they do not disclose that they are executing the contract only in the capacity as an agent for the corporation. Officers who personally guarantee their corporation's obligations are subject to the same liability.

CONFLICT OF INTEREST POLICY

Considering the association's accountability to its membership and the public, the International Board of Directors adopts the following policy and procedures with respect to disclosure requirements concerning transactions and relationships that may involve potential conflict of interest.

- Each officer, director and employee shall avoid situations where their personal interest could conflict with, or appear to conflict with, the interest of the association.
- The use of association assets for any unlawful or improper purpose is strictly prohibited.
- No undisclosed or unrecorded asset is to be established for any purpose
- No false entries are to be made in the books for any reasons, and no employee shall engage in any arrangement that results in such prohibited act.
- No payments are to be approved or made with the intention that any part is to be used for any purpose other than that described in the supporting documents.
- Any employee who knows of any unrecorded asset or any prohibited act must promptly report it to the management of the association.
This policy requires the annual submission from association board members, key management personnel, and employees in sensitive positions, of a statement certifying their compliance with the policy.

The association's Finance and Headquarters Operation Committee is responsible for review and enforcement of this policy. Staff disclosure statements will initially be reviewed and evaluated by the executive administrator. Upon completion of this review, the executive administrator will forward his findings to members of the Finance and Headquarters Operation Committee for final analysis and action.

- This policy shall be construed to also apply to the Lions Clubs International Foundation trustees and employees.
